USPA NEWS - The Carnival of Venice is one of the oldest and most fascinating festivals in the world, with origins dating back to the 11th century. The celebrations began as a period of leisure and freedom before Lent, with grand festivities spreading across the city. The first documented mention of the Carnival of Venice dates back to 1094, in a decree by Doge Vitale Falier that referred to public celebrations in the period preceding Lent.

Over the centuries, the Carnival became increasingly refined and spectacular, with grand masquerades, balls, and theatrical performances. The use of masks, introduced in the 13th century, allowed participants to conceal their identities and mix social classes, offering incredible freedom of expression and an escape from the rigid conventions of the time. However, with the fall of the Republic of Venice in 1797 and the Austrian occupation, the Carnival experienced a decline, and the celebrations were interrupted.

In 1979, the Carnival of Venice was revived with great enthusiasm, recovering ancient traditions and adding new contemporary elements. Since then, every year, the city transforms into a magnificent open-air stage, with a rich calendar of events attracting visitors from all over the world.

The Emotions of Participating in the Carnival of Venice
Participating in the Carnival of Venice is a unique and unforgettable experience capable of awakening a whirlwind of emotions. As soon as you set foot in the city, you are overwhelmed by a magical and evocative atmosphere. The alleys and squares fill with masks and costumes in vivid colors and elaborate shapes, each corner radiating timeless beauty.

Wearing a mask and costume allows you to enter a world of fantasy, where everyday rules seem to disappear. You feel a sense of freedom, the ability to be anyone and live extraordinary adventures. The events and artistic performances that unfold among the alleys and squares offer moments of pure wonder and amazement.

Participation in masked balls and exclusive parties in ancient Venetian palaces evokes a particular euphoria. The fun and conviviality are contagious, and you have the opportunity to meet people from all over the globe, with whom you can share unforgettable moments.

Finally, walking through the city at night, when the lights reflect on the canals and the masks become mysterious shadows, creates a sense of romance and enchantment that only Venice can offer. The Carnival of Venice is a feast for the senses and the soul, leaving an indelible memory in the heart of anyone who participates.
